A book is a little thing. It seems like just a bunch of paper. It has a cover, a title, words.
Sometimes drawings, too.

That's all?
Wait, look again.

A book is a house.
It's like a roof over your head,
a cozy place to stay.

A corner to hide away,
where you feel protected and safe.

A book is a door.
You open it and find yourself
in a different world.
Will you meet someone?
What will happen?
You can't know what's waiting for you.
And that's the best thing about this adventure.

A book is an airplane.
It lets you fly above the clouds and see everything through new eyes.

What you see from up there is so special and wonderful that you may feel a little bit new yourself.

A book is a small thing.

It may seem like nothing more than a handful of pages.

But look closer, and it becomes a house, a mirror, a blanket.

It can be a building block, a sandwich, and so much more.

A book holds endless possibilities, just waiting to be discovered.
